Subject: EOCCG Update 14: Planned Truck Demonstration

Good evening,

While the numbers of protesters in the downtown core was relatively low today, a convoy of about 40 vehicles left RCGT Park/Coventry and was circling the Ottawa International Airport this morning; there also continues to be a small encampment of vehicles at 1500 Bronson Ave. This evening, there is a minor dance party occurring amongst protesters at Metcalfe and Wellington. The NCRCC is also tracking the movement of a new, slow-moving convoy that passed through Ottawa this evening and is currently eastbound on the 417, possibly heading towards Embrun.

City staff were busy providing a range of supports today. The By-law and Regulatory Service staff embedded in the Police-led Quick Response Team (QRT) issued 113 parking violation tickets to protesters in the downtown core. They targeted areas on Kent St, Bank St and Lyon St. Despite being heckled and videotaped by small to medium size crowds, By-law staff remained professional and focused. City Roads staff addressed various debris and litter calls. And, Transit Services have completed plans to update four bus routes (10, 11, 16 and the Centretown shuttle). The intention is to offer better service in the downtown area, while remaining outside the red zone. These new routes are targeting a start date of Monday, February 14, and will be of great benefit to local residents.

The EOC met with various partners this morning to discuss air quality concerns specific to diesel exhaust from idling vehicles. Outdoor air quality in Ottawa is monitored by Environment and Climate Change Canada and the Ontario Ministry of the Environment. That air quality monitoring remains at "level 3", which is considered low/acceptable. Given that some City staff are working closer to the point source though, the EOC is working with the City's Workplace Safety team to issue guidance to City staff on the frontlines that include commonsense precautions.

City staff also worked today to try to relieve some pressure on Ottawa Police, who are being targeted by false 9-1-1 calls. While the City's 3-1-1 service is not able to directly support 9-1-1, they are able to relieve some pressure from the Police Reporting Unit by handling certain types of voicemails. PIMR has also updated the City webpage to direct residents to the appropriate City intake channels rather than to 9-1-1 (e.g., for By-Law queries).

The EOC expects more demonstrations this weekend. Crowd size estimates are currently not known.
